Dear Sir:

In response to your letter of the 23rd, I presume you must have forgotten that your order was accompanied by your cheque for $40 in payment of the four silver Prince of Wales medals ordered by you. In consequence, unless I was mistaken in thinking that this was fewer than you wanted, you owe nothing on the four medals that have been delivered. If you will look the matter up, I think you will find that your records will confirm that you did send us cheque for this amount.

Very respectfully yours,

Secretary.

Dear Sir:-

I have your note of January 24th.

I am much mortified to feel that I had written to you for a bill for the medals you were kind enough to send me the other day as I remember distinctly having forwarded the check at the time I wrote you.

Thanking you for your attention to the matter, I remain

Yours very truly,
